Within...

Within the covers of this book are pages filled with beautiful, caring, smart, and talented women. Each page a story in itself, a moment one of many, and a memory that will last a lifetime.

Within each experience there is not a beginning and an end, but rather continuity. A circle. When first attending Regis, each of us arrived with a history all unto our own. Within our time here, we have each made a new story, a new history, for ourselves, and the greater history of Regis. Within each of our moments of success, failure, love, and loss, within each smile made, hug given, laugh heard, or tear shed, we have joined every Regis woman in the past 75 years who has experienced the same.

Within these four years we have become successful, strong, confident, and independent women. Within this quiet town we not only found a home, but a family, as well. Within these buildings we have challenged ourselves and one another to think, question, and create. Within our time here, we have traveled foreign lands, debated civil rights, and volunteered in hospitals, schools and elderly homes.

Within these four years we have become. We are exceptional. We are the spirit and Pride of Regis College 2002. Within these covers—look, read, feel, and remember.

Dedicated to Sister Lee Hogan

The Class of 2002 dedicates this yearbook to Sister Lee Hogan in honor of her long-standing dedication to Regis College and in gratitude for her countless contributions to the College as student, alumna, teacher and Academic Dean.

At a reception in Sister Lee's honor in December 2001, S. Jeanne d'Arc O'Hare shared some reflections concerning "one of my first and brightest students, Lee Hogan." Sister Lee balanced her serious academic pursuits with active involvement in the political scene as well as a strong interest in athletics, "archery, basketball and golf—but the greatest of these was golf."

In the early seventies, Sister Lee began her career at Regis as teacher and administrator. "As a teacher, her colleagues and students have attested to her excellence... as a dynamic, scholarly and contributing member of the department ... and as an able teacher, whose courses were intellectually challenging. As one student said: Sister Lee is a demanding teacher, who sets high standards but is also encouraging and does motivate us to try to meet her expectations. ... An active faculty member, Sister Lee served on important standing committees. In addition she was the liaison for internships, faculty moderator for Pi Gamma Mu Honor Society and pre-law advisor and was also chair of the Political Science Department. After thirteen years as a member of the Political Science Department, Sister Lee Hogan accepted the responsible and challenging position as Academic Dean. During her tenure in this position, she continued to demonstrate her leadership qualities, her sense of service to the faculty and students, her spirit of collegiality, her sense of humor, her personal warmth, together with the academic responsibilities that go with the office of deanship."

It is fitting, therefore, that we echo and affirm the words of Sister Jeanne d'Arc and express our thanks "to this teacher and administrator for her commitment to the mission of the College and especially to the values of a liberal arts education. For all that you have done these many years, Sister Lee, we thank you! As you turn to the next chapter in the journal of your life, ... we pray that the Lord will continue to smile upon you, be gracious to you and bless you on all your ways."

Inherent dreams.
With the will to see
More than is there, one comes, at moments,
To perceive the more that there is....
— Lines from Denise Levertov, "Something More," Sands of the Well (New York: New Directions, 1996), 63

Class of 2002

A yearbook is a kind of memorial, but also something more— a glimpse into what may be. Certainly, with the class of 2002, my first graduating class at Regis since becoming the College's president, I share the sense of new beginning. As you have worked in my office as interns, as you have conversed with me, as you have brought your perceptions, your programs, and your concerns to my office, you have inducted me, and I have found that you are the first measure of the College's intention. You are living demonstrations of what happens in four years, of the difference a Regis education makes, of the legacy you leave to the classes following you.

But I have also gotten to know you as yourselves. For you, this new beginning is called commencement, for me, inauguration. For both of us this spring, Regis is now the revelation of something new, a threshold into the future.

Even this calendar year—two double zero two—marks a paradoxical unity of ending and beginning. To the class that must step through the mirror image of time, through the looking glass, and really define the century, 2002 is neither an empty mirror nor a flat reflection. It is an expectation and anticipation. And therefore, for all of us here and for over 10,000 living alumnae, you are the same kind of reality. You are the bearers of the promise of "something more," as the grace of the Sisters of St Joseph who founded Regis affirm, and as poet Denise Levertov phrases it. At Regis College as a whole, you who are about to depart are, paradoxically, the first showing of the power that makes all things new.

On the threshold of your next step into the century, then, I send each of you my warmest wishes and blessings. May you always find in this memory book a few moments of knowing silence; a meditative reading together of your Regis College career and its meaning; a record of the intellectual and personal confidence that grew here from the roots of good classes and good work; a renewal of friendship in the different phases of life; and a constant reminder of an abiding experience of connectedness and community. Such an experience of memory and anticipation can only come from the Creator-Spirit. You are about to become members of a larger awareness and a great family of alumnae, and we know who you are. We claim you as our own.

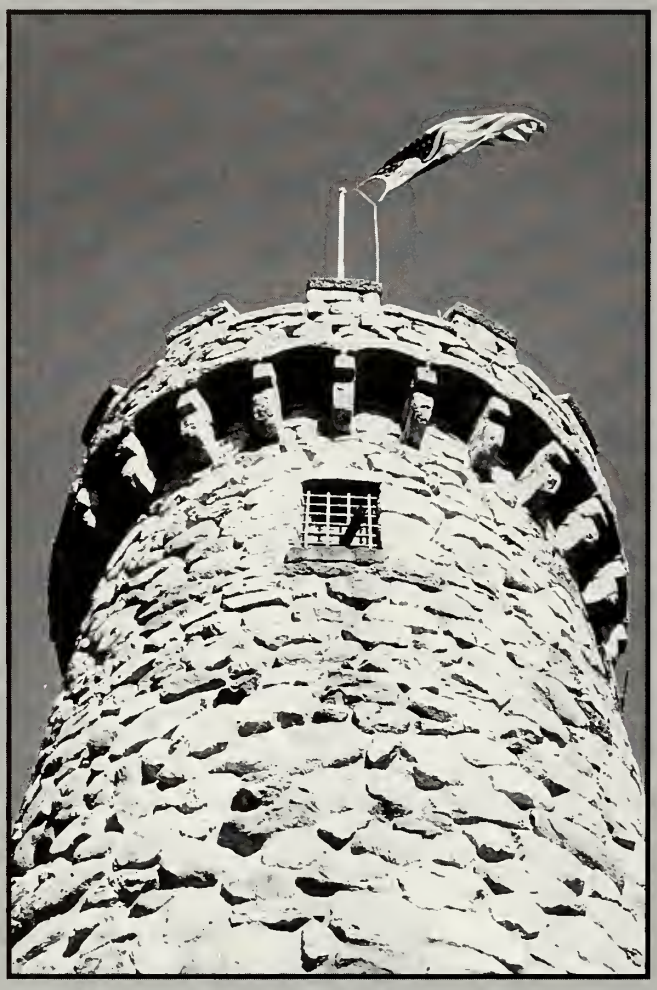
9-11-01 Tragedy: Regis Unites



September 11, 2001. Wordless, hopeless, and lost, the world stopped as the twin towers fell victim to the minds and actions of hatred. Like the smoke that suddenly filled New York City's sky, a strength and unity emerged within our political and powerful country that has changed us forever.

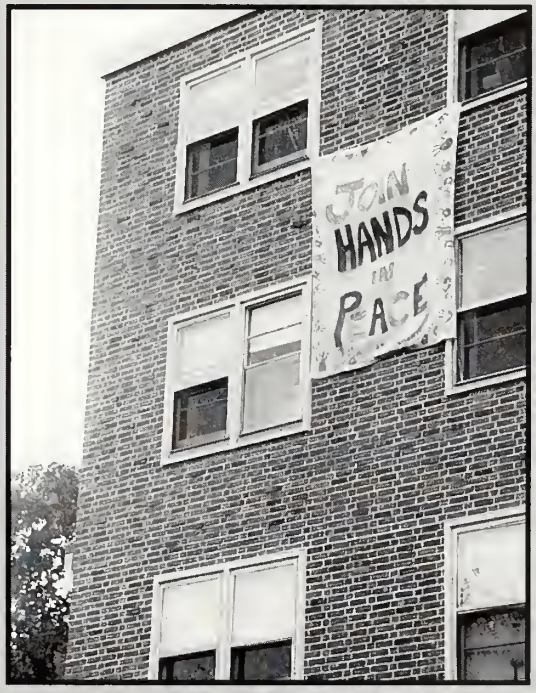
Top: Blood Drive; Bottom: Creating the largest American flag

As a community, we watched together, prayed together, cried together, sang together, and healed together. Students, faculty, and staff united in our small school on the hill and proudly waved our patriotic colors, lit candles of hope, and joined hands in peace. Together, we made two stripes of the largest American flag ever created. Together, we wrote cards and letters to the volunteers, police, and firefighters in New York City. Together, we gave blood for victims of 9/11. Together, we took back despair and created hope.



Students create a hopeful and patriotic banner for Angela Hall.

Seniors

Somewhere in between the dreaming and planning, and the learning and living, our moment arrived. The grains of sand slipped through the hourglass of time, and suddenly rained down upon each of us. An everyday habit of a Dunkin' Donuts run, a weekly gathering to watch "Friends," or "Felicity," or even driving up the familiar driveway, suddenly appeared more beautiful this year. In the aftermath of September 11th, the Class of 2002 embarks on a future in a world filled with chaos. Like our country, we are united by our love, loss, courage, and hope. We are united by our time here at Regis, and the sistership that our women's education has bestowed upon us. Women of the Class of 2002, you are beautiful, smart, strong, talented, and caring. No matter where our dreams may take each of us, we will work together in the spirit, mind, and heart that Regis gave us.

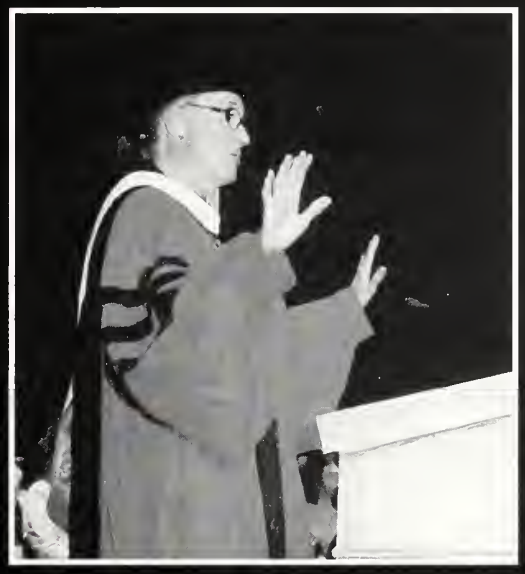
Senior Vestitures

During this time of affirmation, the seniors are welcomed into their last year by the faculty of the college. We are now seniors and have shed the fabrics of our past for the vestitures of our future. With our eyes bright and seeking new experiences, we now begin preparation toward the rewards of our diligence and education.



Leadership awards are presented to those who have embodied the six dimensions of the total development of a student within the college: Intellectual, Emotional, Occupational, Physical, Spiritual, and Social. This year's recipients are: Kara Bolton, Courtney O'Keefe, and Karyn Lessard.

Basketball

The 2001-2002 basketball season did not produce "perfect" statistics but the team was able to unify as one. With only two returning players, junior Karrie Barber and sophomore Mary Gay, the team relied on the guidance of Head Coach Wendy Rogers and Assistants Sharon Hale and Eric Adams. Junior Kate Adams and freshman Caitlin Connolly provided enthusiasm and team player qualities. Captains Zoi Lazarakis and Karrie Barber provided leadership and endurance. Mary Gay helped with defense and her 3-point shot. Freshmen Evan Rufo, Jennie Wiggins and Stephanie O'Ferrall added depth, Rufo as a steady high scorer, Wiggins on the boards and O'Ferrall on defense. Members of the Regis College Pride basketball team gave it their best, through it all.

Field Hockey

Field hockey works overtime!

The Regis field hockey team enjoyed going those extra minutes. Twice during their 5-13 season, the Pride won games in overtime, and senior captain Meredith Mooney was the heroine on both occasions. Mooney scored the OT game-winners as Regis defeated AIC and Lasell. The other Pride victories came against Elms, Anna Maria and St. Joseph. Cait Connolly, a freshman, was named Rookie of the Year and was selected to the first all-star team in the Commonwealth Coast Conference. Mooney captained the team along with junior Sharyl Geary. For the third year in a row, the Pride appeared in post-season competition.

Captains help soccer rebuild

This past season has been a time to rebuild after losing five seniors last year. This year newcomer Keith McLoughlin, from London, England, coached the team. Seniors Ericka Krul and Katie Fernandes, along with tri-captains Zoi Lazarakis, Eileen Thompson, and Maeve Desmonde, led the team. Throughout the season, even in tough times, the women showed their pride and fought to the end. The 4-11 season does not express the many successes they had, including winning the first and last games of the season. The team looks forward to a winning season next year.

The Beauty of A Woman

The beauty of a woman
is not in the clothes she wears,
The figure that she carries,
Or the way she combs her hair.
The Beauty of a Woman
must be seen from within her eyes, because that is the doorway to her heart, the place where love resides.
The Beauty of a Woman
is not in a facial mole,
But true beauty in a woman
is reflected in her soul.
It is the caring that she lovingly gives,
The passion that she shows,
And the Beauty of a Woman
With passing years only grows!

A FLURRY OF CHANGE
Graduation Regis College
by Kay Harrington

Think not the playful breeze that teases the tassel
and tugs at the hem on this your day of days
will forget to pay you due respect.

While it is likely that ghost of a gust
knows nothing of this milestone
to which you have inched;
of the crushing doubts
that encircled your head
like a crown of thorns,
or of dark days that undermined
your course in hope deferred and sent you limping
to the finish line,

Monica Pomare, Pauline Fillman, Kay Harrington, Jane Buckley

Lynne Johnson as Lysistrata

It is now time to soar
with wings of sunrise.
It is now time to gather-
to depose felled dragons
of the past,
to celebrate the laurels
of victory-
those sweet dreams
that blow
through lofty aspens
of accomplishment
and out across the mountaintops
of this fine day.

Kathleen Kearns, Pauline Fillman, Mary Quigley

Congratulations Natasha!
Thank you for all the joy that you have brought into our lives.
May your cheerful spirit carry you through a life filled with lots of happiness, health and success.
We hope that you enjoy all that life has to offer.
And may all of your dreams come true.
We are proud of all your accomplishments.
Best wishes to you and the class of 2002.
May your future be as bright.
Love Mom, Dad, Tania and Emily Anne

To Lisa Lemoine,

Christ has no body but yours.
No hands, no feet on earth, but yours.
Yours are the eyes through which He looks
With compassion on this world.
Yours are the feet with which He walks
To do good.
Yours are the hands with which He blesses
All the world.

Yours are the hands.
Yours are the feet.
Yours are the eyes.
You - are His body.

(Prayer of St. Theresa of Avila)

You are God's gift to us. Now, go out and share your gifts with the world. May you always walk in the ways of the Lord.

With Love and Prayers,
Mom & Dad, Gram, Lucas & Wendy, Mackenzie, Laura, Lee, & Lindsay

Katie,

From your first day of school till your last - always knew you'd succeed.
Love Mom, Love Dad
We are all proud of you. You have done it and the family wishes you nothing but the best.

Laurie,
You have meant the world to us since the day you were born and we are so very proud of you!
Now it's time to follow your dreams.
All our love,
Mom and Dad

Angie,

We are so very proud of you!
Congratulations on the accomplishment of your dream.
May God bless you now and in the future.

Love Always,

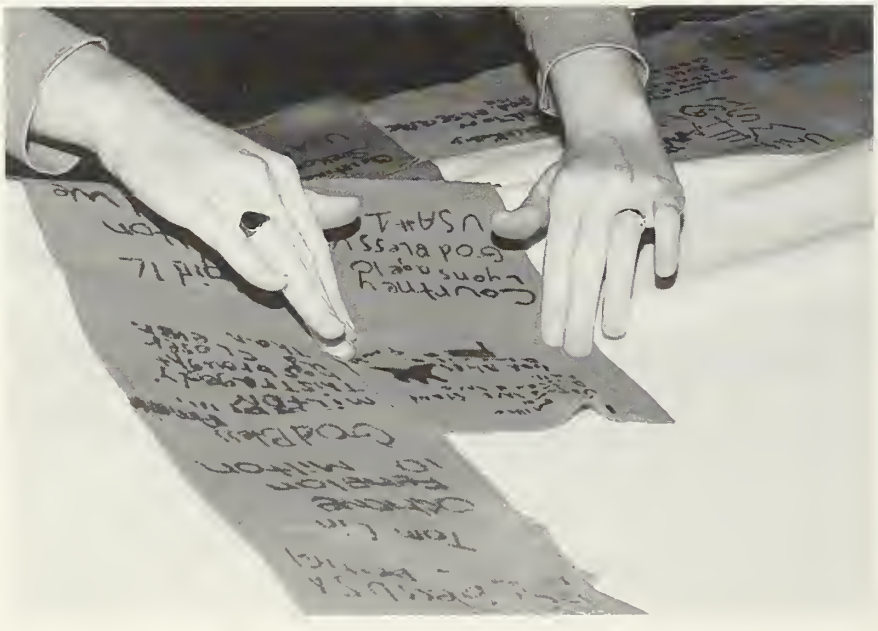
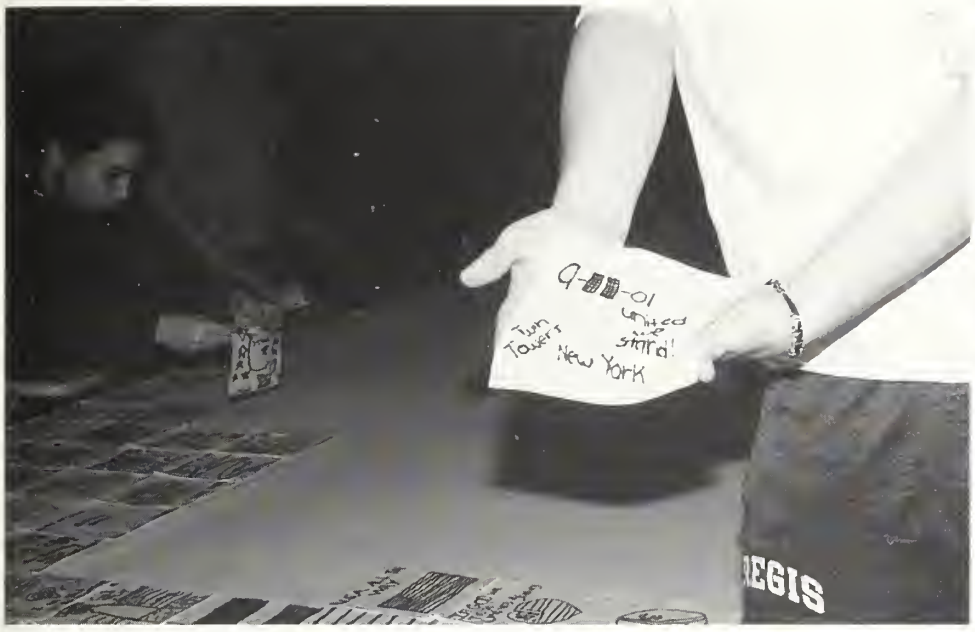
9-11-01 Tragedy: Regis Heals

Days, weeks, and months passed before us, and we turned our sorrows into strength. Together, the Class of 2002, along with other Regis students, works day and night in completing two stripes on the largest American flag ever to be made. Sandra Weston turns her sorrow into art in the following poem, "Tragedy and Aftermath."



We ponder life's true meaning
How is it that some can act less than human beings?
We never cared for strangers who simply walked by
We have one thing in common,
we don't want to die
FBI reports say another attack is coming soon
America will fight back; we are not doomed



Tragedy broke us down, but made us stronger than ever
America is a nation of people brought together
An act of jealousy is what this war will be Threatened by America because we are free
They tried to rob us of our freedom and liberty
Because they were envious; it's like America they want to be
It's not over. The inevitable must come When this war goes down in history,
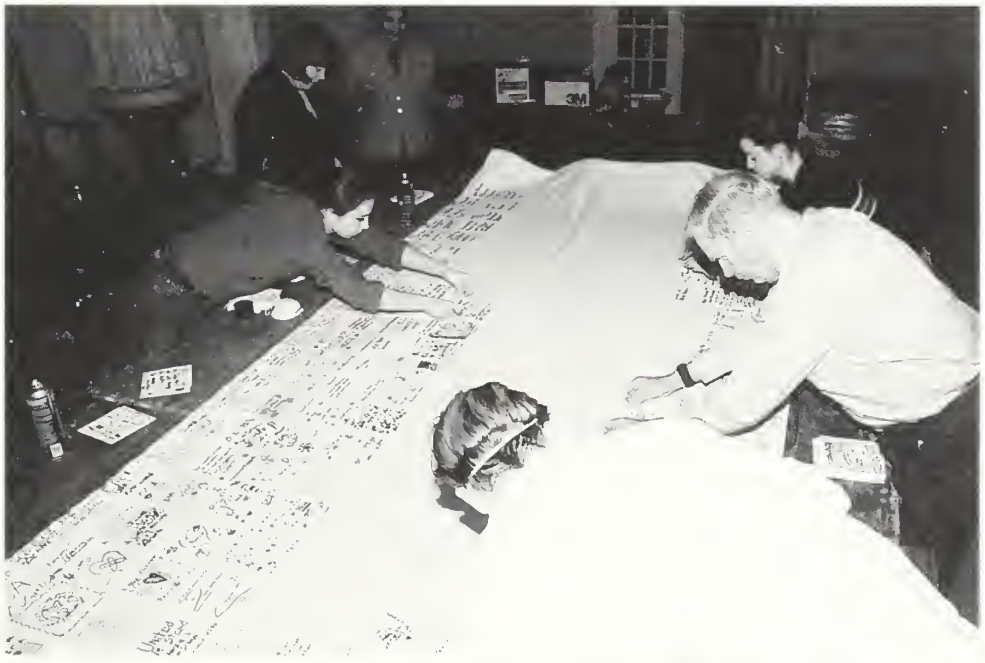
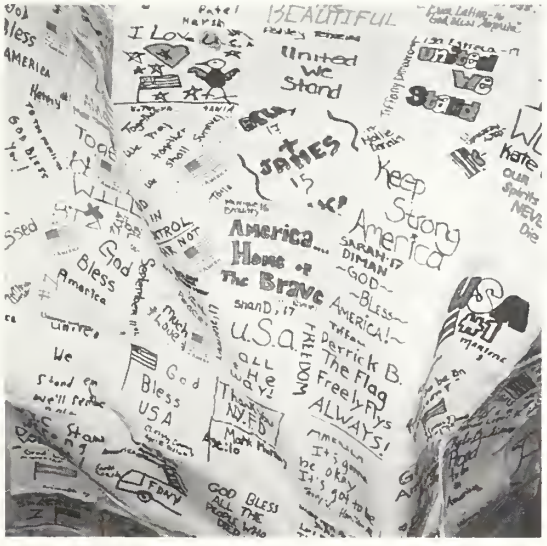
it will be a war that America won.

- Sandra Weston





State of the College Addresses

Letters from the Editors

It is said, "If you want something done right, you have got to do it yourself." That may be true, but most, including myself, would not get very far without "a little help from my friends." This book would not be as fabulous as it is without the support and collaboration of my uber-cool co-editor, Meg, advisor Paul, and all of the seniors, underclasswomen, faculty and staff who willingly submitted their candids and had the patience to stop and smile for a picture when I interrupted their meetings, etc. A special "molte grazie" to my friends for their love and forgiveness (especially all the times I've been late for dinner because I was tooling around in the yearbook office). Lastly and most importantly, thank you to my family (Mom- thanks for the "loans"), I love ya! "I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read and all the friends I want to see," -John Burroughs ... "and all the photos I want to shoot," -Kate Phillips

In writing this book, I feel as if I have looked into the minds and hearts of each of you in the Class of 2002. I may not have had the pleasure of forming a friendship with you in these past four years, but in creating this book, I am overwhelmed with nostalgia for each and every one of you! I hope you enjoy this book as much as I have enjoyed gluing it all together for you! Kate, you are the best! I'm so happy we have become such good friends- love you! Paul, thanks for this opportunity and your leadership! Mom, thank you for helping us and for all of your love and support these years. To my entire family, thank you- I love you! To my Bentley, Babson, and BC friends... these years have been incredible. I love you all and will always be here for you. To my Regi-girls, we will always be sisters... I love you! We did it!!!! Dr. Clark, you are everything that I aspire to be. I love you. To my professors and all the faculty and staff, thank you! Love, Megan

We always thought we'd look back on our tears and laugh, but we never thought we'd look back on our laughter and cry.

Breathe, Breathe in the air.
Don't be afraid to care.
Leave but don't leave me.
Look around and choose your own ground.

Long you live and high you fly
And smiles you'll give and tears you'll cry
And all you touch and all you see
Is all your life will ever be.
